No more cash on London buses

From Sunday 6 July, you can no longer pay for your fare on London's buses with cash. Transport for London (TfL) says the move follows a considerable drop in the number of people paying for their fare this way. Today, with extensive use of the Oyster card, only around one per cent of people still use cash. So this announcement will not affect the 99 per cent of bus passengers already paying for their journeys with Oyster, prepaid tickets, contactless payment cards or concessionary tickets.

Look out for TfL's posters and leaflets providing passengers with more advice about this change.

Crime Mapping

Total Notifiable Offences

April 2014

The information presented has been derived from the website Metropolitan Police Service - Crime mapping.

The purpose of this site is to help show where crime is occurring at a local neighbourhood level.

The Metropolitan Police Service, in conjunction with, the Metropolitan Police Authority and the Mayor of London, has developed it.

Please note, that while every effort is made to record the details of crime and its location as accurately as possible, there are occasions when victims are unable to provide the actual location of a crime. In these instances, the site will not be able to display all the crime reported to the police.

The Metropolitan Police Service accepts no responsibility for any use made of this site or the data it displays outside the intended use stated above.
